Beyond Leading: Elevating Excellence in the Air Movement Industry

In the dynamic realm of air movement and control, where 'Beyond' signifies not just a goal but a standard, the industry faces significant challenges. Rapid technological advancements, stringent environmental regulations, and the imperative for sustainable practices define the current landscape. Additionally, the sector grapples with attracting and retaining skilled talent amidst evolving customer expectations and global market shifts. In this context, transformative leadership that fosters innovation, excellence, and progress is more crucial than ever.

This keynote program, specifically designed for professionals of the Air Movement and Control Association (AMCA) and the Heating, Ventilation, and Air Conditioning (HVAC) industry, aims to inspire, challenge, and empower. Integrating the exclusive Grategy process, which combines gratitude strategy with leadership principles, the program is crafted to transcend traditional boundaries and cultivate culture of superior performance and groundbreaking innovation. It equips leaders to navigate technological changes, regulatory demands, and workforce challenges, steering their organizations toward sustainable growth and industry leadership.

2024 Annual Meeting

Speaker TONY ROSSI | Moral Capitalism and the Immorality of Climate Change Hysteria

This presentation will review the origin of Moral Capitalism, it's benefits to society, and discuss the potential immorality of energy policies.

Engineering societies (e.g. ASHRAE), associations (e.g. AMCA, AHRI), and participating entities (e.g. architects, engineers, contractors, manufacturers and regulatory organizations) play a vital role in developing product standards and performance tests that ultimately improve public health, safety, and wellbeing. This exemplifies "moral capitalism" at work.

"Moral Capitalism" refers to free market policies and business practices that benefit society morally and ethically, not just economically. Many balks at the term, calling it an "oxymoron."

However, capitalism and ethics are indeed intertwined.

This presentation will review building and HVAC design challenges that unintentionally compromised indoor air quality in pursuing energy efficiency. Similarly, some proposals attempting to address climate change prioritize emissions cuts over public health impacts. The immoral side effects of these well-intentioned energy policies reveal the need to balance economic, ethical, and social priorities in engineering solutions. As associations continue advancing technical standards to improve society, emphasizing multi-disciplinary analysis is key to developing morally sound policies that protect public health and welfare.

Speaker ALEX CHAUSOVSKY Economic and Labor Market Update – A Shift in Momentum

The US macro economy is firmly on the back side of the business cycle while several industrial sectors are traversing a mild recession. Aggressive interest rate policy decisions by the Fed mostly stamped out inflation, but they also stifled capital investment. Despite a resilient labor market, cracks are visible in the armor of US consumers, with delinquency rates for credit cards and auto loans flashing warning signs. On top of it all, it's a presidential election year, which adds its own flavor of uncertainty. What does all this mean for AMCA Members? This presentation will deliver practical and actionable advice designed to help business leaders plan for future economic conditions and continuously improve their organization's strategic planning initiatives.
